A Note About the Compiler

Dr. Ruth Hill Useem was born on May 31, 1915, in Hamilton, Ohio. She received her BA in Sociology, Geology and English from Miami University in 1936 and her Ph.D. in Sociology, Anthropology, Social Psychology, and Psychology from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, in 1947. She married Dr. John Useem in June of 1940; they have three grown TCK sons and seven grandchildren.

Dr. Useem first lived outside the U.S. in 1952-53 while conducting research with John Useem in India on persons who had received a higher education in a Western country (a project sponsored by The Edward W. Hazen Foundation). The Useems returned to India a second time in 1958, again sponsored by The Hazen Foundation, to study overseas Americans in India; they took their boys with them to live abroad on both visits. It was these experiences that led to John and Ruth Useem's coining of the term "Third Culture" and, by extrapolation, "Third Culture Kids." Dr. Ruth Hill Useem began publishing on Third Culture Kids in the 1960s. She is widely regarded as the founder of TCK research.

In the years 1952-1985, while supported by the Institute of International Studies in Education and the Center for International Studies and Programs of Michigan State University, Dr. Useem made field observations on expatriate communities, overseas schools, and third culture children in: EAST ASIA (South Korea, Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong); SOUTHEAST ASIA (Philippines, Singapore, Indonesia, Thailand, Malaysia); SOUTH ASIA (India, Nepal, Bangladesh, Pakistan); MIDDLE EAST (Afghanistan, Iran, Kuwait, Jordan, Lebanon); AFRICA (Egypt, Morocco, Canary Islands, South Africa, Swaziland, Botswana, Zambia, Tanzania, Kenya, Senegal, Liberia, Ivory Coast, Cameroon, Togo); EUROPE (Germany, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Austria); UNITED STATES (Washington, D.C., New York City, East Lansing, Michigan). In all, Dr. Useem traveled to 76 countries to complete her field research on Third Culture Kids.

With respect to the education of Third Culture Children, Dr. Useem has acted as a consultant, keynote speaker, and workshop presenter at schools and regional organizations assisted by the Office of Overseas Schools of the U.S. Department of State. She has acted as a consultant to, and given special presentations to, personnel and students of U.S. Department of Defense Dependents' Schools. She has also provided these services to the boards and administrators of Protestant- and Catholic-related overseas schools and schools provided by multinational corporations for the children of their employees. Dr. Useem worked directly with students, parents, and teachers at these schools.

Between the years 1952 and 1985, Dr. Useem also taught at the university level in the U.S. The central emphasis in her teaching has been combining sociological, cultural anthropological and social psychological perspectives for understanding individuals in their social/cultural/economic settings, particularly when those settings are undergoing rapid change and conflict. She taught courses on the education of TCKs both in the U.S. and abroad. During her tenure as an educator, Dr. Useem directed or made substantive contributions to more than thirty doctoral dissertations. Many of these consisted of ground-breaking work in the field of TCK research.

Dr. Useem has been Professor Emeritus of Sociology and Education at Michigan State University since 1985, and has used the last 14 years to continue her work on Third Culture Kids. In her most recent large project (begun in 1991 and ongoing) she has studied the effects of how a Third Culture childhood impacts the individual once they reach adulthood. This research has been conducted with her husband and two additional partners, Dr. Ann Baker Cottrell of San Diego State University and Dr. Kathleen Anne Finn Jordan, a guidance counselor of overseas students. This project includes the analysis of nearly 700 twenty-four page self-administered questionnaires. The Adult TCK respondents ranged in age from 25 to 90 and included men and women from each of the predominant sponsors and a majority of the countries on the planet (See the five articles published in NewsLinks: The Newspaper of International Schools Services listed within the bibliography under Useem or Cottrell for more information.).

Dr. Useem lives with her husband in East Lansing, Michigan. died in 2003.

Acknowledgments

It is inevitable when you live a long life to become indebted to many people. It is also a characteristic of old age not to remember names terribly well, so I hope I have not forgotten many of those who are so well-deserving of recognition.

First, I would like to thank my family, my husband John Useem of 59 years and my own three Third Culture Kids, Michael, Howard and Bert.

Next I would like to thank two fellow researchers with whom I have worked very closely, colleagues who have shared with me the support and skill that make possible the on-going sociological research project on Adult TCKs that we began eight years ago:

Ann Baker Cottrell, Professor of Sociology at San Diego State University. One of my earliest graduate students, Ann and I have shared our public and private lives for many years. Her early research in India on cross-cultural marriage revealed the special insight she has into this subject and she has since made substantive contributions in this field. Ann has also taken responsibility for much of the analysis for our current research project involving 700 24-page Self-Administered Questionnaires.

Kathleen Anne Finn Jordan, Counseling and Guidance Expert, staff member of various overseas schools. Down-to-earth and realistic, Kathy is quick to see the ramifications of choice and circumstance in the lives of specific individuals. Her respect for each individual and ability to motivate people as they act to determine their own course results in particularly effective counseling.

In bringing the study of TCKs this far, I have become particularly indebted to the following:

Clyde Austin, Retired Missionary and Professor Emeritus, Abilene Christian University. Author of Cross-Cultural Re-Entry: An Annotated Bibliography as well as many other articles and papers providing critical contributions to the field of re-entry research.

Cole Brembeck, now deceased, was the original Director at the Institute for International Studies in Education located at Michigan State University. His generous support of my work allowed me the opportunities to concentrate on TCK research.

Richard Downie, Director for International Studies and Programs at the University of Florida. He holds a seat on the Board of Directors for International Schools Services and has also served as Director of Pupil Services at the International School, New Dehli. I have long appreciated his creativity and support.

David Pollock, Director of "Interaction," an active support organization for children and teens entering/re-entering the U.S., especially those in transcultural families. Dr. Pollock's enthusiasm while working with young people has resulted in substantive contributions to the field of re-entry transition.

Ted Ward, a colleague at Michigan State University in the College of Education who introduced me to many missionary groups. He is now at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School.

I am indebted to the following students and colleagues for fresh insights, critical reviews and generous sharing of ideas: Frank Shepard, Charles Kite, Carlton Benz, Carol Herrmann, Ayla Sevil Delin, Mary Rainey, Tom Gleason, Jerry Hager, Allen Parker, Thomas F. Kelly, Frank Krajewski, Ernest Mannino, Norma McCaig, and Barbara Kirk

And finally, I would like to thank the three assistants I have engaged since 1991. Over these years I have relied on them to help me with the technical aspects of my research, particularly in the area of computer machinations. I would like to thank Martha Kreiner, Heather Holtzclaw, and Sonya Schryer. Sonya has proven to be most helpful, doing the computer work needed to put this bibliography together: choosing and learning a new software package, tailoring the program to fit our needs, data entry, on-line research, developing keyword search capabilities, proofreading and the final readying of the bibliography for printing. She now handles sales of the bibliography and steadily enters new citations for future inclusion into later editions.

Introduction to the Second Edition

Whatever direction I came from, as soon as I came within the mission walls I knew once more just where I stood. In the school, values might be a trifle artificial, to say one thing and mean another; in the city, life might appear relaxed and indifferent; but in the mission I knew no doubt, no hesitation. The answers were written, the rules established. I had only to act upon them, to speak the words already given. I was often relieved to enter this world, to know for certain what meant what. Yet it was impossible to bring any other world into it, as impossible as it was to bring any one of my three worlds into another. Instead of blending, they grew more and more distinct and unyielding, drew farther and farther apart, until I came to see that if they were ever to meet, it would not be in Shanghai itself but only in the person who knew them all and took them with him when he left.

Dear Reader,

You are holding in your hands the second edition of a bibliography on Third Culture Kids (MKs [Missionary Kids], Army Brats, Business Kids, Global Nomads, etc.). It is the result of nearly 50 years of research conducted by Dr. Ruth Hill Useem, Professor Emeritus of Sociology and Education at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

The materials listed are varied in medium and in content. Academic work, research sponsored by the U.S. employers of overseas workers, personal accounts and materials used to help with the processes of re-entry in the short and long term are included among many others.

In this second edition we have included "Addendum 1," which is made up of two hundred and six additional citations. The sources for these additional materials are not separated by type as is the main part of the bibliography. We have also made corrections to certain citations listed in the first edition. We are indebted to our users for many of these additions and corrections. Encouraged by user response we are still collecting, so you will find at the end of this bibliography a section on how you can reach us with further error corrections or additional sources.

Some of the journals cited in the “Journal Articles and Book Chapters” section are the products of particular religious denominations. The Billy Graham Center Library (P.O. Box 794, Wheaton, IL, 60189) is an excellent resource for these publications as some are difficult to find and many are not carried by academic libraries.

Many of the dissertations listed are available from University Microfilms International headquartered in Ann Arbor, Michigan. The Dissertation Abstracts International “DAI” number listed with the dissertation serves as its reference number.

Dr. Useem passed away in 2003. Further information about this bibliography is available from Dr. Ann Baker Cottrell 5111 Manhasset Dr. San Diego, CA 82115

An Introduction to Locating Alumni /Reunion Information, TCK Organizations, Overseas Schools Resources Plus A Note on Internet Resources

Below you will find groups and organizations by, for and about TCKs and their unique needs abroad and in the U.S. Although the information is by no means exhaustive, it can serve as a helpful jumping-off point.

As a resource for Alumni/Reunion Information, just one example is listed. It is a publication that provides excellent, practical methods for conducting searches and it announces, advertises and reports on countless alumni groups and reunions. Four TCK Organizations are named, each of which provides community and support for different populations of TCKs and Adult TCKs. Four Overseas Schools Resources are listed as well: one is independent, one religious and two governmental. They provide information about educational options and restrictions in general terms as well as by geographic area and even by specific institution. Through them you can also learn of the efforts being made by isolated overseas schools to maintain high-quality standards and to keep up with the ever-changing trends in U.S. schools. In addition, these sources also provide information about obtaining staff positions with overseas schools. And finally, A Note on Internet Resources.

Alumni/Reunion Information:

Most TCK publications will include resources for finding lost friends and locating alumni groups and reunions. The following is a particularly useful example.

Overseas Brats www.overseasbrats.com
Joe Condrill, Pres and Editor P.O. Box 29805 San Antonio, TX 78229-0805	Tel: 210- 349-1394 Fax: same as phone E-mail: OSBPRES@aol.com
Subscription Info: 3 issues a year; yearly rates on a sliding scale of $20-$40
Pres and Editor Joe Condrill offers many suggestions and strategies which are useful to TCKs seeking out childhood/teen associates regardless of their parental sponsorship. Overseas Brats primarily covers Department of Defense Dependents' Schools. Also, see Condrill's "Locating Friends Guide" in the Misc. section of this bibliography.

TCK Organizations:

To be financially independent. 6. To provide an annual conference that meets the diverse needs of the membership, e.g. individual staff development, communication, and networking. 6. To provide membership with current information concerning issues which may impact overseas schools and to serve as an advocate when appropriate.

A Note on Internet Resources:

The swiftly changing nature of the Internet restricts our ability to provide up-to-the-minute information about on-line resources. We have included the websites maintained by the organizations listed above for your convenience. Aside from these, we would like to recommend one other: www.tckworld.com. We would also like to express our gratitude to Sam Britten, the webmaster of tckworld, for creating and maintaining a website for Dr. Useem at www.tckworld.com/useem.

TCK World is dedicated to the support and understanding of Third Culture Kids (TCKs) and Adult-TCKs (ATCKs). Its mission is to increase awareness of how cross-cultural experiences and the transition processes affect children, while providing practical resources for the parents, teachers, and other role models of Third Culture Kids (TCKs), as they face the challenges of culture-shock and reentry (repatriation) shock. Additionally, TCK World provides materials for Adult-TCKs (ATCKs), as many continue to grapple with the challenge of finding a niche within their own home cultures.

As a part of this mission, TCK World includes several major sections:

Operation Footlocker (OpFoot), the Mobile Military Brat Monument, designed to celebrate the shared cultural identity of military brats; Schools Without Walls (SWW), a site for TCK schools which no longer exist, providing alumni, parents, faculty and staff a way to reconnect with each other; the Worldcome Multicultural Education list, a collaborative effort of educators; Recommended Readings for and about TCKs/ATCKs; interviews with cross cultural trainers, authors, and researchers; an extensive collection of links to other relevant web sites; and the home site for Dr. Ruth Hill Useem, compiler of this TCK Bibliography.

TCK world (www.tckworld.com) is temporarily inoperative (2011). There is a place to sign up for notification if it relaunches.

A current and active website for TCKs and ATCKs is tckid <http://tckid.com>

Journal Articles and Book Chapters

Some of the journals cited in this section are the products of particular religious denominations. See Appendix II for more information concerning individual periodicals. The Billy Graham Center Library (P.O. Box 794; Wheaton, IL; 60189) is an excellent resource for these publications as some are difficult to find and many are not carried by academic libraries. The Billy Graham Center has published a bibliography which we list in our Miscellaneous Section under the author, Mary Schimmels.

Theses and Dissertations

Theses and dissertations are the final written works of graduate students pursuing Masters degrees and Doctorates. Below you'll find a table which explains the shorthand used to signify the degree attained. DAI (Dissertation Abstracts International) is a compilation of abstracts from various dissertations and some theses. The first number combination and letter, such as "33/03-A" signifies the volume; "p." signifies the page number. Dissertation Abstracts International can be found at the majority of academic libraries; it is also available on CD-ROM and on the Internet. UMI (University Microfilms International) is located in Ann Arbor, Michigan and supplies dissertations to libraries and individuals; if an item has a DAI reference number, you may order it through UMI. See Appendix II for one of their order forms.

Ordering Dissertations and Theses

When you find titles you want in the Dissertation Abstracts database, first check to see if they're available in full text from UMI. Over a million of them are; their citations include a UMI publication number. Titles UMI can't supply are clearly noted.

Dissertations and theses are generally available in your choice of formats: unbound paper, softbound paper, hardbound paper, microfilm, and microfiche. We custom-make copies from the microfilm masters in our vaults when we receive orders, so dissertations and theses can be returned only if there are production defects.

Price list

	Microfilm/fiche	Softcover Paper	Hardcover Paper	Dissertation Express Unbound Paper
Academic	$32.50 each	$36.00 each	$43.50 each	$29.50 each
Non-Academic	$46.00 each	$57.50 each	$69.50 each	$51.00 each
International	$46.00 each	$57.50 each	$69.50 each	$57.50 each

All prices in U.S. dollars. Costs include shipping & handling.

Choose the order option that suits you best:

- ☐ Use Dissertation Express to place orders over the Web (prices and formats listed above). For top savings and quickest results, order unbound copies and charge to your credit card (or order through a participating library and save even more). Unbound copies arrive within four days; other formats may take longer.
- ☐ Place your orders directly with UMI's Dissertation Hotline:
 - ☐ North American customers: phone, 800-521-3042 or 800-521-0600, ext. 3781; fax 800-308-1586. Shipment should arrive within 14 working days.
 - ☐ Customers elsewhere: phone, 734-761-4700, ext. 3766; fax, 734-973-7007; mail, UMI, 300 N. Zeeb Rd. Ann Arbor, MI, USA 48106-1346. Shipment should arrive within 21 working days after UMI's receipt of order.
- ☐ If you're using Dissertation Abstracts Ondisc, you can generate an order form within the system for faxing or mailing.
- ☐ If you're using Dissertation Abstracts Online through Ovid Online, DIALOG, DataStar, or EPIC/FirstSearch, you can order dissertations online.
- ☐ If you've enrolled in Dissertations ASAP, we'll automatically send you the titles that fit your profile, as soon as they're published, at a 20% discount.
